Dear Dr. Hector Leroy Garcia, Because of your preception, objectivity and association with the Democratic National Committee I am writing begging for a moment of your time, in my research.

Why do you feel Senator Lyndon Johnson was willing to accept the nomination as Vice-President in 1960 at Los Angeles, when he would have had more power as Senator? Do you feel he was truly a man of the people and understood the problems of the Latin American people?
Did you personally meet him, and if so, when and under what circumstances? What (was) (is) your impression of Lyndon Johnson?

Your comments and views are most important in my research and even if brief will be appreciated and anxiously received.

Thank you.

Sincerely
J. L. Pruett
