Dear Hector:

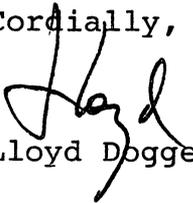

In a few days the voters of Texas will decide the outcome of the 1984 U.S. Senate race, and by the time this letter reaches you the campaign will have ended.

I want you to know how much I appreciate your support and wise counsel as a member of my Advisory Council. Libby and I appreciate the symbolic importance of such a body during a campaign, but I want you to know that I look upon you and those who agreed to serve on the Council as special people and special friends.

Whether it be as a U.S. Senator, or in some other public pursuit, I hope to be able to continue turning to you for wise counsel on those issues which concern us both.

Libby joins me in sending best regards and our most sincere thanks.

Cordially,

Lloyd Doggett
