

Challenges in Medicine

Challenges in Medicine

"Challenges in Medicine" is a special seminar series directed to busy physicians challenged by the need to remain current with the constant change of clinical medicine. These seminars feature noted authorities and topics that will help practicing physicians provide the best care possible as they face the day-to-day realities of patient care.

You are invited to join your colleagues at the "Challenges in Medicine" seminar featured in the enclosed invitation. Because space is limited, please complete and return the enclosed card by the date indicated to guarantee your reservation, or call the toll-free number indicated on the program invitation.
