

Creating the Nation's first BioPark

National Zoological Park · Smithsonian Institution · Washington, D.C. 20008

July 14, 1990

Welcome to Washington, D.C.!

The National Zoological Park extends a warm welcome to all attendees of the National Council of La Raza Conference. We invite you to come and see the wonderful and fascinating residents of our Park.

Don't miss the only giant pandas in the U.S., Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing. Visit the Zoo's many other outdoor and indoor animal exhibits. See the Brazilian golden lion tamarin monkeys ranging freely in the treetops! We are only a 10 minute walk from the Omni Shoreham Hotel so enjoy a stroll through the park. The Zoo is open everyday from 8:00 am to 8:00 pm; animal buildings close at 6:00 pm and admission is free.

Also, Thursday, July 19 there will be a free evening concert held outdoors near the Lion/Tiger Exhibit. The Lazy River Jazz Band will perform from 6:30 to 8:00 pm.

If you have any questions regarding our hours, events or other inquiries, please call the Zoo's information line at (202) 673-4800.

Hope to see you here!

Sincerely,

Benjamin B. Beck
Acting Director

1889-1989

"...for the advancement of science and the education and recreation of the people."