Dear George:

Only someone deep in the ivory tower can so blithely shrug off the attitude of rule or ruin which he so recently displayed, forgetting years of friendship and accusing old associates of selling out. You are optimistic about PASSO and you now want to make it work. Unfortunately you cannot undo the damage you did so easily--even from the ivory tower. You assume, as all liberals, that only your judgment is infallible. Well, YOU go on and make it work with the new leaders you mentioned in your letter to Hector Garcia. You pursue your theories--we'll continue our own way. You could have campaigned for your man without impugning the motives of those you did not agree with. Sorry Doctor, but you more than anyone would realize that one characteristic of the Mexicano is his long memory, and you should have weighed your actions and your words in these past few weeks with that in mind. Now you are too late.
